Scientific Program Highlights

ISH 2010 has a program that appeals to everyone interested in global cardiovascular risk. The topics highlighted in this month's newsletter include measurement of blood pressure, the role of the kidney in the generation of hypertension and new exciting techniques to manage refractory hypertension. Implementation of knowledge to the public health area will be highlighted in a session on public health strategies in countries with developing economies with a state of the art lecture and a number of presentations. In addition to hypertension, the pathobiology of obesity - induced cardiovascular disease will be addressed. The interplay of genetics – inherited disorders/predispositions to disease and environmental factors leading to atherosclerosis will be the focus of several talks. ISH 2010 invites you to join us for an outstanding learning experience.

Fjords and Glaciers –Whistler Day Tour

There is so much to see and do in Vancouver; be sure to extend your stay! Visit the Optional Tour and Social Events Program page for complete details on all of the available tours and for registration information.

June Feature: Fjords and Glaciers - Whistler Day Tour

Saturday, September 25, Thursday, September 30 and Friday, October 1

From crisp mountain air to crystal clear lakes and lush forests, Whistler Resort is a natural year-round playground tucked away in the Coast Mountains of British Columbia. Renowned for its outstanding skiing and home to the 2010 Olympic Winter Games, Whistler also offers visitors a wide variety of year-round activities including dining and shopping.

Your day will begin with a spectacular drive along the Sea to Sky highway, stopping at Britannia Beach and Shannon Falls, two unique and breathtaking sites to visit en route. Once at Whistler, you can ride the chairlift to the top of the mountains for a spectacular view of the Coast Mountains or go from Whistler Mountain to Blackcomb Mountain in minutes on the new Peak 2 Peak Gondola, hike along the mountaintops, or shop in the boutiques which line the cobblestone walkways of the village. An excursion to Whistler is a must for all visitors to British Columbia.

For more information, visit the Optional Tour and Social Events Program on the Meeting website.
